continues to remain high. Pollution continues to go up despite us passing orders, Government saying it is doing everything and lawyers arguing so much... It is a simple question," Chief Justice Ramana asked Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the Centre. The question came in the middle of yet another inconclusive hearing which ended with the court giving the Government a 24-hour deadline to take "serious action" to beat the smog enveloping the Capital. The court decided to hear the case at 10 a.m. on December 3 a half hour before usual court timings to underscore the gravity of the issue. The court said it would be forced to pass directions on December 3 if the Government could not decide and act in time to save lives.
